JASON FULTON

Partner

(214) 389-5325 jfulton@diamondmccarthy.com

Jason Fulton is a litigation partner in the Dallas office of Diamond McCarthy. He handles all types of commercial disputes for plaintiffs and defendants in state court, federal court and arbitration, and has particular experience in representing partners and shareholders in disputes related to real estate and other closely held businesses.

Jason was co-counsel for the plaintiff in a six-week trial that resulted in a jury awarding a $65 million dividend to the shareholders and more than $2 million in additional damages to the minority shareholder. In a case pending in the U.S. District Court for the District of Puerto Rico, he provides ongoing representation of a real estate development company in an action against a bank for fraud and breach of contract.

Jason joined Diamond McCarthy in 2008 after working in the Dallas office of a national commercial litigation firm. Prior to becoming an attorney, he worked on the options floor of the Philadelphia Exchange and the Pacific Exchange, and in commercial paper for a major issuer, giving him insight into securities, derivatives products and debt instruments.

Jason is licensed to practice law in Texas and is also admitted to practice before the Northern, Southern, Eastern and Western Districts of Texas, the 5th Circuit, and the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

Representative Cases

- Co-counsel for Plaintiff in a six week trial that resulted in a jury finding awarding a $65 million dividend to the shareholders and more than $2 million in additional damages to the minority shareholder. The case was brought on behalf of a minority shareholder against the majority shareholder and the corporation for claims of shareholder oppression, fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, and breach of contract. The jury found Diamond McCarthy's client entitled to a substantial dividend, back pay, and attorney's fees. See Jury sides with Dallas businessman in ARGO Data case.
